Near this gate stood General Stakelberg, directing the operations. The Russian batteries, cleverly masked, disturbed the Japanese gunners, and as a result their projectiles fell short. The bombardment lasted many hours. There was a critical moment when the bulky commissariat wagons had to pass the exposed, narrow gateway. The Japanese tried to take advantage of the situation, and repeatedly attacked the Russian flank, but they were beaten off. The Japanese began to press the rear guard, for the majority of the Russian troops had gone north, and Colonel Krause, with a battery, came to the rescue. - He posted his guns near the gateway and fired 500 rounds with terrific effect upon the advancing masses. The Japanese gunners first fired widely, but finally found the range, the first well aimed shot killing Count Nirod, who was standing beside Colonel Krause. The Russian guns were then removed. Two companies still remaining at Kat Chou had to fight their way north with bayonets.

Important events may be expected near Hai Cheng in a few days.

Sold Wherever Civilization Has Penetrated.

Millions of the world's best people use Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings and chafings, for annoying irritations, or too free or offensive perspiration, for ulcerative weaknesses, and many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, especially mothers, as well as for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery.

Cuticura Soap combines delicate emollient properties derived from Cuticurs, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odours. No other medicated soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery. Thus it combines in one soap at one price the most effective skin and complexion soap, and the purest and complexion soap, and the purest and sweetest toilet, bath and nursery soap.

Theatrical Notes.

The park continues to attract large crowds and the performances at the Casino under the management of Manager Arthur Van are first class and very pleasing to the patrons of the theater. The bill will be changed as often as deemed advisable.

The Swallow & Markle Floating show at the wharf drew a large crowd last night. It is fairly good of its kind.

Owensboro is to have a new theater. Manager Pedley, of he "opera house" there now, is to build it, and the publie is to assist by purchasing 1,000 tickets at $10 each.

Paducah is certainly getting her share of floating shows this summer. Several years there didn't but two come here, French's and Eugene Robipson's. This year French's, and Swallow & Markles have already been here, and the Eisenbarth & Harth is to assist dressmaker. Apply 1152 at Henderson due down, Price's Floating Water Queen is at Mt. Thorpe bluself, of course, made his rose before him and looked at him with leadquarters at Camp One. During their sad eyes. He wondered where the five years he had never crossed the his sister was. She would be twenty two years old now. A tenderness his sister had made repugnant to him haunting, tearful, invaded his heart all the southern country. All winter At such moments the hard shell of his long he was more than busy at his logging. Summers he spent at the mill. He longed with a great longing for Occasionally he visited Marquette, but sympathy, for love.

He was happy because he was too busy to be anything else. The insist-ent need of success which he had created for himself absorbed all other sentiments. He demanded it of others rigorously. He could do no less than demand it of himself. The chief end of any man, as he saw it, was to do well and successfully what his life

Success, success, success, Nothing could be of more importance. Its attainment argued a man's efficiency in the scheme of things. Anything that interfered with it-personal comfort, inclination, affection, desire, love of

The entire responsibility of the city end of the business was in his hands.

Injun Charley continued to bunt and trap in the country round about. Once or twice a mouth the lumberman would snowshoe down to the little cabin at the forks. Entering, he would nod briefly and seat bimself on a cracker box.

"How do, Charley?" said he. "How do?" replied Charley.

They filled pipes and smoked. At rare intervals one of them made a re-"Catch um beaver las' week," re

"I saw a mink track by the big bow! der." offered Thorpe.
"H'm!" responded Charley in a long drawn falsetto whine. Yet somehow the men came to know each other better and better, and each felt that in an emergency be could depend on the other to the uttermost in spite of the difference in race.

Every autumn the company found itself suddenly in easy circumstances. At any moment that Thorpe had chosen to be content with the progress made he could have, so to speak, de clared dividends with his partner. Instead of undertaking more improvements, for part of which he borrowed some money, he could have divided the profits of the season's cut. But this he was not yet ready to do.

He had established five more camps: he had acquired over 150,000,000 more of timber lying contiguous to his own; he had built and equipped a modern high efficiency mill; he had constructed a harbor breakwater and the necessary booms; he had bought a tug; built a boarding house. All this cost mon-ey. He wished now to construct a logging railroad. Then he promised him self and Wallace that they would be ready to commence paying operations. He had made all the estimates and even the preliminary survey. He was therefore the more grievously disap-pointed when Wallace Carpenter made it impossible for him to do so.

It was about the middle of July. He was sitting back idly in the clean painted mill office with the big square desk and the three chairs. Through the door he could see Collins perched on a high stool before the shelf-like desk. From the open window came the clear, musical note of the circular saw, the fresh, aromatic smell of new lumber, the bracing air from Superior sparkling in the offing. He felt tired.
